Doug

At this time I believe we can move forward and will await the actual draft permits to engage further with the EPA if needed.

Thank you for your time.

Good morning Alisha: thank you again for your feedback during our February 19th web conference on the proposed Dewey Burdock uranium ISR project.

We are following up to see if you have had the opportunity to talk with your tribal leadership about whether the Santee Sioux wish to have further engagement (including formal consultation) with EPA about this project prior to our proposing UIC permit decisions for public comment. Please note that once these draft permits are out for public comment, there will be additional opportunity to engage with EPA, particularly on the specifics of each draft permit.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Douglas Minter

Hi Alisha,

Thanks for getting back to us so quickly. We can schedule our webinar for the 19th, since that day works for you. If it turns out that day doesn't work for your Tribal leaders, we can move it to after March 4 when you are free again.

Shall we say 2:00 your time on the afternoon of February 19th as a start time?

Thanks!

Good Morning.

Days are limited for the rest of February. I only have the 19th free on my schedule up to 3:30 pm. I am out of the office on training sessions from the 22-March 4.

I will not know for sure if Tribal Leadership will be available until the day of the meeting. As of right now, it will be myself and my Tribal Response Coordinator attending the webinar. Once a day and time is set I will let tribal leaders put it in their calendars.

Thanks for the update Alisha. You actually got more snow than most of us in/around Denver.

We would be happy to offer a web conference (including visuals) to you and your tribal leadership. Hearing back from you on whether your leadership wishes to consult informally or formally as a next step will help ensure that we have the right level of EPA management present.

Also, is there a particular day/time that would fit best into your schedules?

Finally, let us know if you would like us to: 1) present the same information we covered with you in Kansas City (in part or in whole); or 2) first talk with you on the phone to identify a list of topics you/your leaders would like to discuss.

Sincerely,

Douglas Minter

Yes, we have just returned to work after the 17 inches of snow that came our way.
I haven't gotten a response back from leadership in regards to consultation. At this time I think a teleconference/phone call with our office would be sufficient.

Hi Alisha: at the request of my management, I am just checking in to see if you have had the opportunity to engage your tribal leadership on whether they wish to pursue formal consultation as noted below.

We have had quite a lot of snow here in Denver and I heard this winter storm may be headed your way!

Thanks in advance,

Douglas Minter
